Novo Nordisk’s Victoza secures FDA paediatric approval for type 2 diabetes

This article was originally published here.

Victoza was approved by the regulator for the treatment of type 2 diabetes in adult patients in 2010. It is now the first non-insulin drug to be approved.

The post Novo Nordisk’s Victoza secures FDA paediatric approval for type 2 diabetes appeared first on Pharmaceutical Business review.